

Kennedy Has Emphasized He Wants Tax Cut

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy made it clear today that he wants Congress to vote a tax cut of at least $10 billion this year—even if it abandons the tax revisions he has proposed.

Addressing an economic growth symposium sponsored by the American Bankers Association, Kennedy said that Congress might conclude that a straight cut in tax rates without revisions would be simplest and best.

The President strongly indicated that he would not balk at such a turn of events.

"The first priority is a bill," he said.

In fact, Kennedy said, Congress might decide on a tax rate cut of $13 billion.

He indicated such a move would be acceptable.

"If we're going to err," he said, "I would certainly err on the side of big enough."

At another point, he said, "If we're going to do this, we might as well do it right or not at all."

All these remarks came during an unscheduled question and answer session following a major address in which Kennedy used blunt words to reply to critics of his tax cut package.

The ABA symposium coincided with the 100th anniversary of the founding of the national banking system.

To mark the anniversary, Kennedy proclaimed 1963 as "The centennial of the commercial banking system."

In his prepared remarks, Kennedy said critics of his tax proposals have an obligation to offer positive alternatives.

The President said his proposal would promote the kind of economic growth that could add $5,000 to the income of the average American family during the next 10 years. That would be an average annual earnings increase of $500 a family.

Kennedy acknowledged that his tax bill "is now under attack from both the left and the right."

Colombia Clash Blamed on Leaders

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—The Confederation of Colombian Workers blamed the government today for a clash between troops and striking cement workers that killed 11 persons and wounded 34 near Medellin Saturday.

The confederation charged the army ignored the strikers' constitutional rights and escorted a caravan delivering cement from the plant.

The government countered that extremist elements ambushed the caravan and began shooting at the escort, forcing the troops to return fire. All the dead were strikers. Eleven soldiers were wounded. Authorities have arrested 94 persons.

The cement workers struck three weeks ago demanding higher pay and fringe benefits.

Eight Killed Accidentally in Arkansas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents killed eight persons in Arkansas over the weekend, one man was found dead in a lake and one died of carbon monoxide poisoning, boosting the state's violent death toll for the week ended midnight Sunday to 24.

The week's worst tragedy was the death of nine persons in a fire at Luxora last Thursday.

A three-car drag race on U.S. Highway 70 near Glenwood resulted in a two-car collision and the deaths of two Glenwood teenagers Sunday.

James Michael Hearn, 16, and Herman J. Logan, 19, traveling in the same car, were killed, State Trooper Henry Tong said.

Tong said Hearn and Logan were drag racing with Donald Ray Golden, 19, also of Glenwood, and Charles Biggs, 16, of Glenwood. Tong said Golden and Biggs were drivers of the other two cars.

The accident happened after Golden had crossed a bridge about one mile west of Glenwood, Tong said. The car carrying Hearn and Logan smashed into a bridge abutment and the car driven by Biggs hit the car in which Hearn and Logan were riding, Tong said.

Pike County Sheriff Charles Holder said Golden was charged with racing and speeding and Biggs was charged with reckless driving. They are held in the county jail at Murfreesboro, Holder said. A hearing was set for Wednesday.

A car-train crash at Swifton killed two Swifton women. Mrs. Naomi Jordan, 51, and Mrs. Ruth Ashley, 56, were killed when Missouri Pacific Lines passenger Unit No. 8 hit their car at the South Railroad Crossing inside the Swifton city limits.

The crash demolished the car and scattered parts of it for 200 feet. The train was bound from Little Rock to St. Louis. It did not derail.

Earl Brock, 29, of El Dorado, was found dead in his car Sunday on a rural road seven miles east of El Dorado. He was found by his father, Frank Brock.

Union County authorities attributed death to carbon monoxide poisoning.

The body of a man identified as Edgar Dykes, about 45, of Eudora was found Sunday in Grand Lake near Eudora. Acting coroner F. N. Carnahan said Dykes died of unknown causes. Dykes was last seen Saturday evening.

The other four weekend fatalities resulted from traffic accidents Saturday.

Also during the week, traffic accidents killed three other persons, one asphyxiated and one died in a truck-train crash.

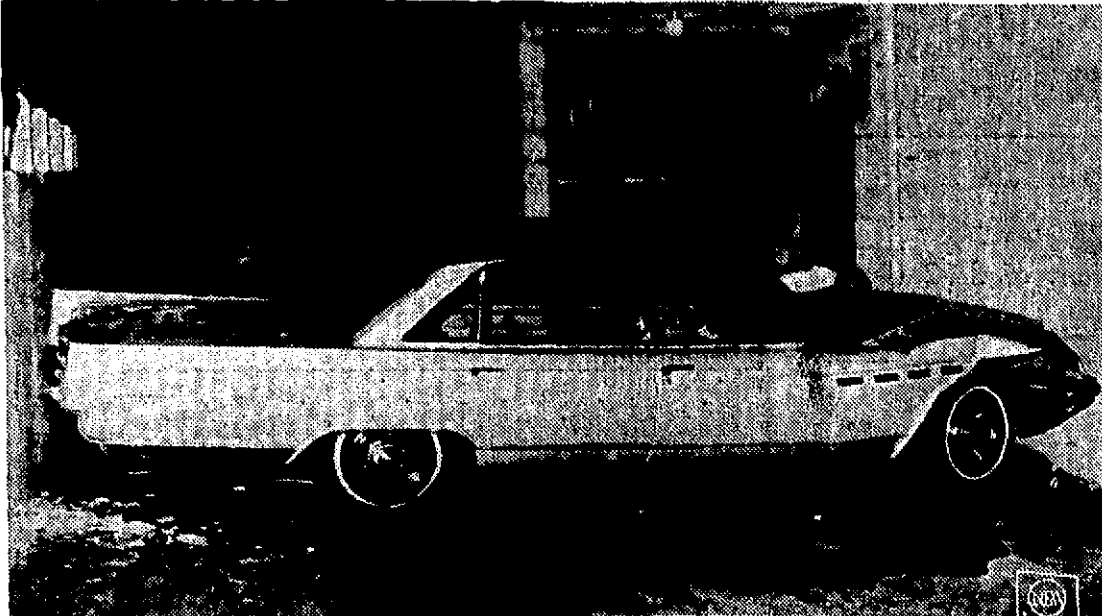

Assembly of God Selects New Pastor

In a special called business meeting at the First Assembly of God Sunday evening, the Reverend B. J. Whitliffe was elected to serve as pastor. He will be filling the vacancy of the Reverend W. C. Land who served the church for the past seven and one-half years.

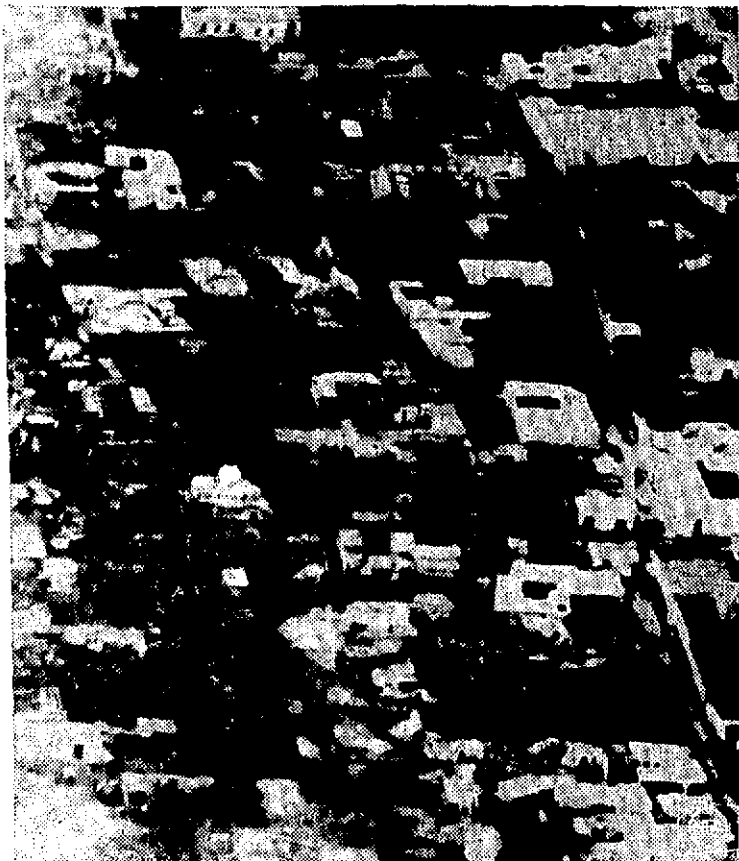

The Reverend Whitliffe comes to Hope from Eureka Springs, Arkansas where he has pastored the First Assembly of God for nearly four years.

While pastoring in Eureka Springs, Reverend Whitliffe worked extensively in Parent Teachers Associations in both city and Carroll County. He is presently serving as president of Eureka Springs Ministerial Association. He is also serving as vice-president of Christian Civic Foundation of Carroll County.

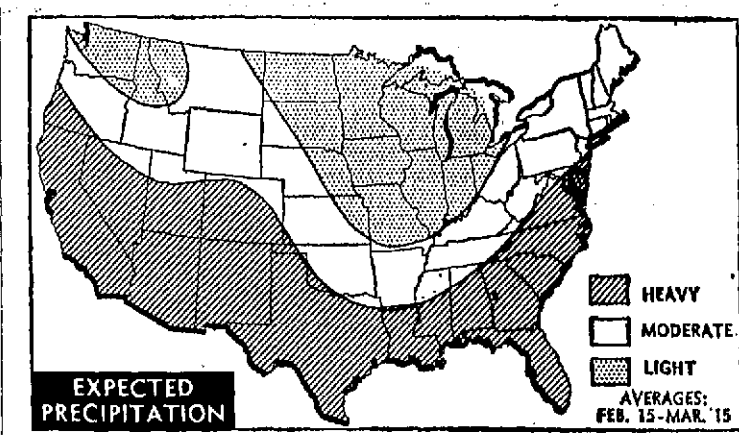

Rev. Whitliffe expects to assume his responsibilities in Hope within four weeks.

State Police are aiding in the investigation.

Says Politics Turblent in Korea

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—Former secret police chief Kim (ong-pil, forced into at least a temporary exile, said today he hopes his departure will stabilize South Korea's turbulent political situation.

The once-powerful Kim took an airliner to Tokyo to begin what is officially labeled a 50-day tour abroad as "ambassador at large."

There were unconfirmed reports that the winners of the power struggle within the military government were arresting some of the men who helped Kim turn the Central Intelligence Agency into a feared instrument of political power.

Kim quit as CIA chief last month to organize the Democratic-Republican political party that was to be the military's vehicle for winning power as civilians in elections this spring.

Shorn of his CIA power, Kim ran into trouble from opponents in the junta and was forced to retire from the party and politics.

Local Masons Hear Talk by Dr. Bagley

"Americans is in the Hour of Choice between Democratic principals set forth by the first Master Mason, George Washington, and the forces of totalitarianism," according to Dr. Roy Bagley, who spoke at the annual George Washington Birthday Dinner of Whitfield Masonic Lodge members and their guests on Friday, February 22 at the Masonic Hall.

The message sparked with good humor and also carried deep thoughts of present-day problems faced by people, nationally and individually.

Some 100 persons enjoyed a dinner served by the members of the Eastern Star. After the meal, Woodrow Parsons, Worshipful Master, welcomed the group, introduced the ladies who had served, and turned the program over to Roy Anderson, who introduced the speaker.

Bill Due Today to Get Rid of Rockefeller

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus said today that former Gov. Sid McMATH gave Winthrop Rockefeller special favors and McMATH countered that the statement was "a Faubus lie."

Faubus issued his statement in a news release in response to remarks made by McMATH over the weekend blaming the governor for a legislative move to oust Rockefeller from the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission.

"Mr. McMATH is measuring other people's corn in his half bushel and his measure is short," Faubus said. "This is not to be taken as criticism of Mr. Rockefeller, but many of us know he has received special privileges ever since he has been in Arkansas."

The governor then said that McMATH, as governor, had given Rockefeller certain privileges. McMATH said it was his recollection that Rockefeller did not move to the state until after he, McMATH left the office. "I never met Mr. Rockefeller until 1956," McMATH said when contacted by newsmen for comment on Faubus' remarks.

Newsman asked Faubus if he were sure that Rockefeller was in the estate while McMATH was governor and he said he was "from personal recollection."

Records indicate that Rockefeller did not come to Arkansas until 1953.

McMATH said in his earlier statement that Faubus wanted to remove Rockefeller from the AIDC because "He is wealthy and got prestige for bringing industry to the state."

Rep. L. H. Autry of Mississippi County said Sunday night he would introduce in the House this week a bill to remove Rockefeller from the AIDC.

Autry said the same thing last week, but the bill was not introduced.

In effect, the bill would reorganize the AIDC and allow Gov. Orval E. Faubus to reappoint the membership he wanted. Autry said the bill is aimed at Rockefeller because he is leader of the Republican Party in Arkansas.

Rockefeller, chairman of the AIDC since it was created in 1955, remarked: "I have been a Republican since the day I joined the AIDC. This seems to be a rather belated reaction."

Protests rose in number over the weekend over the bill.

Former Gov. Sid McMATH said the bill was a product engineered by Gov. Orval E. Faubus. McMATH said the Faubus administration is jealous of the prestige Rockefeller has gained by getting businesses to locate in Arkansas.

"It is the height of ingratitude," McMATH said.

Autry said Sunday night he had "more than enough" signatures on the bill to insure passage. He said the same thing Saturday. Rep. Walter Day of Mississippi County, who drafted the bill with Autry, said Saturday "we have between 44 and 46 signatures on the bill."

Admits Russians Feeding Cubans

HAVANA, Cuba (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro's brother Raul admits that Cubans would be starving if it were not for aid from the Soviet Union.

"There are difficulties in our country," he said in a ceremony Saturday night commemorating the 45th anniversary of the Soviet army.

Just what aid the food-short Soviet Union is sending was not disclosed.

The younger Castro also announced that citizens of Havana would go on clothes rationing today. This indicated a drastic shortage of cotton and other lightweight clothing.

Lawmakers to Shove Through Soft Drink Tax

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill increasing the tax on soft drinks and one increasing truck license fees are expected to come before the Arkansas Legislature this week.

The soft drink tax bill would bring in about $4 million. The truck license fee increase would bring in about $320,000 a year.

Ten per cent of the soft drink tax would be set aside for construction of vocational schools. This would amount to about $400,000 a year.

An amendment setting aside the 10 per cent was added to the bill Friday, making it an educational tax. Thus it needs only a majority to pass instead of three-fourths of the votes.

Seventy per cent of the money would go to finance a state aid system of county roads and 20 per cent would go to cities for street work.

The original bill would have given counties 60 per cent and cities 40 per cent of the anticipated revenue.

There are other bills pending to give counties and cities a larger share of state highway revenues—and the soft drink tax bill may be an effort to keep from cutting the department's funds.

One bill introduced last week would give cities and counties $1 million from the first $3 million of highway revenue over $58 million a year.

The revenue total last year was $57.8 million and is expected to go up this year.

The Arkansas Municipal League bill, also introduced last week, would give cities an additional $1,750,000 a year straight out of the highway fund by hanging the distribution formula.

Passage of the soft drink tax would probably satisfy the counties without more money from the highway fund. The cities, however, aren't likely to settle for 20 per cent in the amended bill.

Arguments over city and county financing could create a backlog of business in both the Senate and the House unless some agreement is reached.

If this happens, Gov. Orval E. Faubus has indicated that he might call a special session to settle the matter.

Conviction of 187 Negroes Is Set Aside

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court set aside today the conviction of 187 Negroes on breach of the peace charges brought after they demonstrated against racial segregation on the South Carolina State Capitol grounds.

Justice Stewart delivered the court's 8-1 decision. Justice Clark wrote a dissenting opinion.

The Negroes, high school and college students, carried placards and paraded about the Capitol at Columbia, S.C., on March 2, 1961. The State Senate was in session at the time.

Stewart's opinion said that "In arresting, convicting and punishing the petitioners (the demonstrators) under the circumstances disclosed by this record, South Carolina infringed the petitioners' constitutionally protected rights of free speech, free assembly and freedom of petition for redress of their grievances."

Joining Stewart in the majority were Chief Justice Warren and Justices Black, Douglas, Harlan, Brennan, White and Goldberg.

Clark's dissenting opinion said that the demonstrators "of course, had a right to peaceable assembly, to espouse their cause and to petition," but, he added, "In my view the manner in which they exercised their rights was by no means the passive demonstration which this court (the majority) relates."

Dirksen Says Americans Involved

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., said today he has uncovered evidence that four American fliers were killed in the abortive 1961 invasion of Cuba.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, said in an interview he has completed a one-man inquiry into the Bay of Pigs disaster and is ready to turn his findings over to Senate investigators.

Other than to report the belief that four American lives were lost, he declined to discuss the evidence he has assembled. Some of it came from participants in the invasion and some from U.S. military personnel in the area at the time.

The Republican leader said the four fliers were shot down in invasion planes which did not carry U.S. markings. Presumably they were in B26 bombers downed by jet trainers inherited by Fidel Castro from the overthrown Batista regime.

News stories at the time mentioned that one U.S. civilian flier might have been shot down. This report later was labeled erroneous.

Dirksen said he plans to discuss his findings with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate's Preparedness subcommittee.

A subcommittee inquiry into the military strength of Soviet-dominated Cuba is expected to get under way this week. Stennis has indicated he regards the 1961 invasion as "spilled milk" to which the group would not be justified in devoting much time at this point. Dirksen disagreed.

"It seems to me it becomes a matter of some importance when even four American lives are lost," he said.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., contended on a television program Sunday that he and other Republicans had warned in advance what would happen in the Bay of Pigs.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who appeared on the program with Scott, said his colleague was engaging in "Monday morning quarterbacking."

"All of your talk about the Bay of Pigs was after the event," he told Scott.

Congress Is Emotional About Cuba

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Once more members of Congress get emotional about Cuba without knowing all the facts. And once more President Kennedy had to stay cool to learn the facts in order to make intelligent decisions.

The American shrimp boat Ala, drifting with engine trouble in international waters between Cuba and the United States, was attacked late Wednesday by two Russian-built MIGs from Cuba. Neither the ship nor the two-man crew was hit.

Rockets or machineguns were used. Machineguns, the two men said. Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., said it might be significant that the boat "had no flags and no marks of identification that were apparent."

Kennedy told his news conference Thursday he wants to learn: Whether the MIG pilots were Russians or Cubans; whether they attacked on their own or were ordered to by the government of Cuba where he says 17,000 Russian troops are stationed; and whether this was an isolated case or part of a Communist policy.

Once before—in 1961 after four American commercial airliners had been hijacked, and three of them landed in Cuba—there were demands in Congress for drastic American action. Kennedy had to play it cool then, too.

As it turned out, none of the hijackers was a Cuban and, so far as was known, Fidel Castro had nothing to do with the events. Similar demands were made in Congress Thursday before it could be learned whether the MIG pilots knew the unmarked ship was an American boat or why the attack was made. Some of the demands were for "hot pursuit."

If Kennedy orders "hot pursuit," American planes which came upon a similar incident in the future would pursue and shoot down the MIGs even if it meant chasing them into their bases in Cuba to do it.

As Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara demonstrated recently on television—with aerial photographs—the Cubans have not been bothering American planes which are now flying over Cuba to take pictures.

But if American fighter planes Cuban planes, they probably would be fired on and so would the nonfighter American planes on photographic missions. Then what?

Yet Sen. Richard Russell, D-Ga., one of the most important men in Congress as chairman of the Armed Services Committee, was one of those advocating "hot pursuit" although he admitted he didn't think the MIG pilot knew they were attacking an American boat.

To prevent this whole business from getting out of hand — and leading through "hot pursuit" to an incident which could mean war — Kennedy has done two things until he can be sure of the facts:

1. He ordered American military planes to shoot-if-necessary against MIGs making any similar future attacks on American vessels.

2. He will try to find out why and by whom the attack was made on the Ala.

The President said he would refrain, pending further information from pinning the blame for the episode on the Soviet government which only Saturday said it would remove a batch of its troops from Cuba.

Kennedy said the planes "came from Cuba and therefore, unless the Soviet Union should claim they were flying them, we would hold the Cubans responsible."

Even if the pilots were Cubans, and not Russians, there would still remain this vital question: Did they act on their own or on orders? The White House said a strong protest has been made to

Russian Still Needs Tractors

MOSCOW (AP)—Spring planting time has come in southern Russia, but Pravda reported today that the virgin lands, just like last year, haven't got their tractors ready.

Last year at this time, Pravda reported, 9,000 tractors, 14,000 plows and 6,000 cultivators—all necessary for spring work—were idle in the virgin lands for lack of repairs.

"Repair crews should have taken into consideration the failures of last year and taken corrective action," Pravda said.

"The repair work is still unsatisfactory."

TV Fans Like the Regulars Much Better

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A new report on television audience attitudes indicates that most of us would rather see a regularly scheduled program than a special.

If that is true, it may be because so many programs called specials aren't really specials at all—most often one or more big names surrounded by familiar comedy material and tired sketches.

Therefore, when something like Sunday night's CBS "Carol and Company" comes along, it's worth a special cheer. He had a sparkling hour from the moment Carol Burnett yearned (in song) to play Jeanette MacDonald parts to her hilarious striptease at the end.

Robert Preston's competent presence was a great help too. He and Carol had a bright and offbeat duet that started with a round and wandered off unexpectedly through "The Whiffenpoof Song" and "You Are My Sunshine."

All the music, material and humor were fresh and gay. It was a real special—a television treat.

Friday night's "World of Maurice Chevalier," on NBC, should have had some of the same sprightly qualities, but it did not fare so well.

The approach was sober and did not do the magnificent Frenchman justice. Indeed, it was often dull and Chevalier has never been that.

ABC's "The Roosevelt Years," a companion series to its Winston Churchill pieces, is set for Sunday nights next season. The half hour series is expected to be shown in the time now held by Howard K. Smith's news commentary. Plans for Smith at ABC are up in the air.

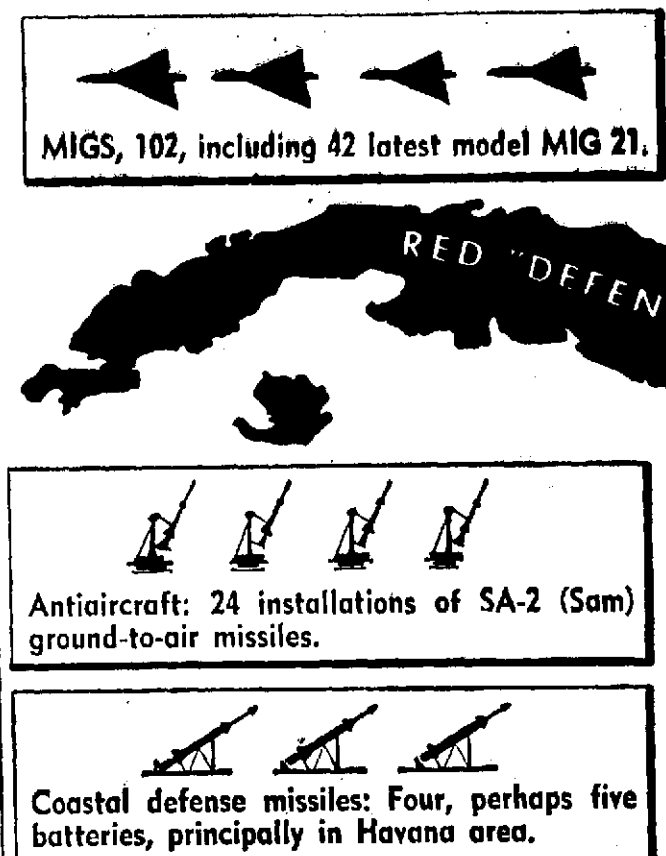

Add shows expected to disappear at the end of the summer re-runs: "Steel Hour," "Premiere Theatre," "Going My Way," "The Gallant Men," "Car 54," and "Mr. Ed."

Castro's government. Kennedy said "I would think that when we have got a clearer pattern, then we could make a judgment on whether hot pursuit should be carried out to the shores of Cuba."

In 1961, while three of the four hijacked American planes were landed in Cuba, 24 of Castro's planes were hijacked by escaping Cubans and landed in the United States.

The last of the hijacked American planes landed in Cuba was an airliner with 81 persons aboard. Castro returned the plane and the passengers.

But before they knew what he was going to do, Sens. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., wanted Kennedy to order the plane returned within 24 hours or, although Castro had nothing to do with the hijacking, send U.S. forces into Cuba. Kennedy stayed calm. There have been no more hijackings.

RED POSTURE IN CUBA—Communist "defensive" military and weapons setup in Cuba as indicated by U.S. Defense Department is shown on News-Graphic, above. • The latest-model MIGs in Cuba have 1,000-knot speed, 1,000-mile range with air-to-air rockets aboard. • Anti-aircraft weapons in 24 installations of five launchers each.

are armed with 38-foot missiles: range, 30 miles; altitude capability, 80,000 feet. • "Komar" patrol boats—12—each have two launchers for guided missiles designed to hit surface shipping. • In addition to the combat troops, an estimated 12,000 Russian troops are in various service and instructional capacities in Cuba. Dr. Anders' Dilemma

By Henry and Sylvia Lieferant

THE STORY: David realizes that Dr. Tony Thorne is a rival for Nancy's affections. But David has told Nancy that he loves her.

CHAPTER VII

The probability of spending wakeful hours in vacillating moods of rage and despair held no appeal. David required little sleep, but that little had to be untroubled. He walked up the avenue toward the poolroom. Three steps down in a basement, behind windows heavily curtained with brown baize, the place was crowded and damp.

David glanced around the room. He noticed the boy with an ugly, swollen eye drooping on a bench in the corner. He pushed his way through the crowd. "Where'd you get that eye?" he asked mildly.

The boy was not more than 16, anemic and sullen. "Hello, Doc." David repeated his question. There was something in his eye, the youngster said.

"Come on with me to the hospital. Come on! What's your name? Bim?"

David shoved the boy ahead of him into the white expectant hush of emergency Reception. "I'm not soliciting extra work for you," David said to Bernstein, on duty. "I'll fix this kid up if you want me to."

Bernstein was scrubbing up. "That's okay either way. Just had a sewing circle here—stabbing party at Rusty Pete's."

"Well, ex-officio I'll take him off your hands. I guess we won't be penalized—if you stand by."

Miss Argyle the nurse in charge handed Bernstein a small eye retractor which he gave to David, thereby conforming to the rules. A steel chip had been so deeply imbedded in the cornea that David had to cocaineize the eye, and while the anaesthetic was working he talked to Bim.

"Why did you hang around the poolroom with an eye like that? You should have been home and in bed."

"It ain't my turn to sleep."

By indirect questioning, David drew out a story of too many people living in too small a space. Bim's family took turns sleeping in the bed and on the floor. When it wasn't his turn, Bim slept anywhere.

"How'd you like to sleep here tonight?"

"Who—me? In a hospital? I ain't sick."

"Ever have a job, Bim?"

"You givin' 'em away?"

"There must be something you like to do."

The eye was numb. Miss Argyle handed David a long rigid needle with a flattened tip. David's fingers were almost all of a length, and blunt. They formed an admirable clamp for an instrument.

"Hold still now, Bim—" and with a twist of the wrist he had the chip out. "There you are — not even big enough to take home with you."

An ambulance left a shrill gash of sound on the night air and whirled to a stop outside the window. "At's what I wanna do," Bim said. "Drive an ambulance."

"There's a lot of thrills in it," David agreed. "Miss Argyle here—shell bandage your eye."

state chairman of the GOP, noted that William P. Rock, executive secretary of the AIDC since 1955, would be leaving June 30. He said he didn't "know what political obligations the governor has, but I believe that's a $15,000 a year job."

"The man has brought over 500 industries into the state, has found employment for 70,000 persons at an annual income of $200 million," Spicer said. "If he leaves, the only one to suffer will be Arkansas."

McMath called Rockefeller's contributions to the state "The brightest on the horizon, second to none."

Fifty-one votes would be needed to pass the bill. Spicer said it appeared that Autry and Day were having trouble getting legislators to back them.

"And in view of Mrs. Rockefeller's record, I'm not surprised," he said.

Faulstich has continued that it might not be in the best interest of the people of the state, "who want industry and jobs" to have Rockefeller head the AIDC and remain the leader of Arkansas Re-

Guerrilla War in Caribbean Not Unlikely

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may be facing a period of virtual guerrilla warfare in the Caribbean area around Cuba.

Whether this dangerous possibility develops appears to depend primarily on how Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro decides to use the extensive arms, including jet fighter planes, supplied to him by the Soviet Union.

President Kennedy, as he made clear at a news conference Thursday, is watching the situation closely and with several unanswered questions in his mind about the fighter plane attack late Wednesday on a U.S. shrimp boat in the Florida Straits about 60 nautical miles off the Cuban coast.

Kennedy and his military and diplomatic advisers are not sure what was behind this assault on a small, unarmed vessel in international waters. The President said he was watching to see whether a pattern develops, meaning a pattern of attacks against surface and aircraft traveling in the region round Castro's stronghold.

If it turns out that the strike at the shrimp boat was an isolated incident without Cuban government sanction, concerns felt in the top levels of the administration here will ease off somewhat.

The Cuban government said Thursday night it was not responsible for the attack.

What the shrimp boat affair has dramatized for the moment is Castro's ability to make trouble if he wants to.

Cuba is almost completely isolated economically and diplomatically by the Western Hemisphere nations and is under surveillance by U.S. aircraft.

Kennedy told the news conference that Castro's economy is in bad shape and is being subsidized by the Soviet Union. He said various forms of Soviet assistance to Cuba now cost Moscow about $1 million daily.

Castro's capacity to carry out a campaign of harassment is provided at the moment primarily by MIG fighters. But as Soviet forces are withdrawn from the island under Premier Khrushchev's promise to Kennedy, other types of weapons may fall into Castro's hands.

Those include highly developed anti-aircraft missiles, capable of shooting down this country's high-flying U2 reconnaissance planes; coastal defense rockets capable of striking ships about 25 miles at sea, and naval patrol boats also armed with short range rockets.

Negroes Charged With Gambling

WEST MEMPHIS, Ark. (AP)—Four of five West Memphis Negroes indicted on gambling charges by a Crittenden County Grand Jury Wednesday were arrested Thursday and a hold order was placed against the fifth, who is in federal prison.

Sheriff Cecil Goodwin said the men taken into custody were James S. Williams, billiard hall and sandwich shop operator; Jack Brown, cafe operator; Samuel (Tub) Ervin, former cafe operator and Sylvester White Jr., former cafe manager.

Williams, Brown and Ervin posted bonds of $1,000 each, Goodwin said, and were released. White was held in the Crittenden County jail.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place. Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astonishing statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation 119. At all drug counters.

Average TV Family Is 4 Children

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The average family in a television comedy series, says writer-producer Cy Howard, "consists of four children, a mother who looks like Donna Reed and a father who is harmless and inoffensive, like a dentist who doesn't hurt."

All such series end the same, he adds. The daughter screams, "I'll kill myself if I don't get a new dress for graduation." The husband then chucks the wife under the chin and grins. "She's just like her mother." Fadeout.

Howard swam against this tide of conformity at the beginning of the 1962-63 season with a new show called "Fair Exchange."

This one actually was new because it offered: An hour-long comedy; two casts and locales.

The idea was to show the intermixture of Anglo-American cultures. An American child went to England to live with a family as an exchange student; the English parents sent their child to live with the American family on the same basis.

The reviews were generally good; the ratings weren't. "Fair Exchange" looked like one of the season's earliest casualties.

It was indeed chopped off the air after 13 weeks. But networks sometimes behave in strange ways. CBS agreed to give the show another 13-week ride—if it could be cut down to a half-hour.

Howard and his parent producer, Desilu, agreed. The 50 percent version returns to the air March 28.

I asked Howard how the scripts would adjust to the bobbed version. "Better," he said. "Actually,

Washington Has Elegant Bridal Gown

The invitation, yellowed with age, has three divisions and the left hand one reads:

Reception
No. 30 North Thirteenth St.
Half-past twelve to two o'clock
On the Center part you find:
Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Thomas marriage of their

to

St. Paul's Episcopal Church
Richmond, Ind.

and finally on the right hand third:
Rev. and Mrs. Alexander C. McCabe
At Home
Mount Sterling, Kentucky
after January 16th
Emma C. Thomas

Although you are slightly over eighty years late to respond to this intriguing invitation, you have the opportunity of seeing the elegant wedding gown worn on the occasion. Displayed in a marble-based glass case, it is rich, now ivory colored dress of other years.

Emma Catherine was a petite bride as evidenced by the tiny sleeves which are finished with a pleated ruffle where they reached the wrist. The same pleated ruffled forms a demure high neckline which is set off from the basque waist with another pleated ruffle forming a square yoke. On its front, tiny pearl buttons reach to the bottom of the basque which joins the floor length pleated skirt with two bows of self material. Two graceful swags are fastened to the middle portion of the front of the skirt with satin bows. The stately train is attached at the minute waist line in the back with pleating and its length, which extends a full thirty-six inches beyond the hemline is edged with the same pleating found on the basque.

On the wall behind the dress is the cambric underpinning, edged with exquisite pleated organza and lace which helped display the train in its pristine glory. The wedding fan of ivory and satin is on the floor near-by and the display is completed with the tiny soft kid wedding slippers made bird-like with rosettes of the same material on each toe.

In a separate case is the fan which belonged to the second day ensemble. This fan has beautiful walnut ribs which are covered with scarlet taffeta, and as it is this was not enough beauty, it has a sprawling hand painted design of for-get-me-nots and lilies of the valley in their natural coloring across the entire front.

This very lovely ensemble was provided for Pioneer Washington Foundation by Mrs. William R. King, Memphis, Tennessee, and was given to her by Mrs. G. E. Turbeville of the same city. It belonged to Mrs. Turbeville's mother. It may be seen in "The King Room" of the Old Tavern.

MORE ABOUT THIS

MOBILE LIFE

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: As a former mobile home park owner and now a permanent resident in a mobile home, I wish to say that your knowledge of mobile home living is comparable to a child who voices his dislike for stringbeans without having tasted them.

Wherever one lives, there are no guarantees that you will love all your neighbors and all your neighbors will love you.

Your remarks as to "gypsy life," "pot luck neighbors," "plumbing and heating connections" and "barracks-like life" simply do not pertain to the facts.

Mobile homes are manufactured in all price ranges and sizes, like houses. They are equipped with all the luxuries many home owners dream of but cannot afford. Very few are transported by their owners today. In most instances, they are towed by a reputable, insured mover for the same price that one would pay to have the furnishings from a house, without the drudgery of packing and unpacking.

Many of our school teachers have happily chosen to be housed in mobile homes in preference to living in substandard housing.

Should you ever decide to embark on an educational venture of this type, please accept an open invitation from me for you to visit my air-conditioned mobile home, situated on top of a hill and enjoy hors d'oeuvres, filet mignon with all the trimmings cooked in my very modern stainless steel stove, be graciously served by my maid and experience the facts of mobile home living. —Mrs. Edith A. Scherer, Elkridge, Md.

Dear Helen: Although a constant reader of your column I never felt the urge to write you until today. Now about this mobile life:

My husband and I owned a nice, five-bedroom house in which we raised our seven children; sent them to school and saw them married. Now that they have homes of their own, we sold ours and bought a mobile one; living room, two bedrooms, bath and kitchen, complete with automatic washing machine. Having completed the cycle, Dad and I look forward to a carefree, uncluttered future in this snug, ship-shape, comfortable and cozy home. I hope you will print this. —A Nurse and Her Husband, San Jose, Calif.

Dear Helen: I got quite a kick out of your column on trailer life. Will you come and see how mobile home living really is. Then you would be more definite in writing about it. —Mrs. Ann Wedding, Sunnyvale, Calif.

Though never a trailer or mobile home owner, I've been in plenty — some of them pretty plush. The most luxurious was one built to order for the late Henry Huddleston Rogers Jr., grandson of a partner of the senior John D. Rockefeller. It had everything: plumbing, paneled walls and sumptuous decorations but, even with all the fancy trimmings, was still a trailer limited to certain set specifications.

Jennie Felt set a new Class B Senior Girls scoring record as she led Shawnee to a 57-47 victory over Keiser for the championship. She scored 39 points while Keiser's Wanda Smith contributed 27. Both teams are from Mississippi County. Keiser defeated Shawnee in the district contest.

In the Senior Girls Class A battle, Leslie held a 31-21 lead at the half was never seriously threatened afterwards.

The most colorful trailers I've ever seen and, in their unique way the most comfortable, were used by circus stars for touring rural France. One was the home on wheels of Captain Edward Gray, a retired British soldier and broncho buster who impersonates Buffalo Bill. As a star of Amar Freres, the Arab circus owners, he had travelled in his mobile home from Northern Africa to Flanders when we met at Arras.

The Amars had an equally cozy trailer painted a bright orange. A striped scarlet and white awning rolled out over the rear "entrance," forming a shady spot for Mama Amar when the circus pitched tent for business.

Agreed a house on wheels has certain advantages, but if you're not going to travel, it seems a little silly to put a home on wheels.

And there's the double disadvantage of lack of space. I happen to like high-ceilinged, large rooms and walk-in closets. To me, mobile homes or trailers are hardly in keeping with the traditions of our nation. They encourage a people who shift like gypsies instead of taking root in land they own and love.

Dear Helen: My life has been one big quarrel ever since my husband and I were married two and a half years ago.

His violent temper reduces me and our little girl to tears. When he comes near me I get hysterical, freeze up and hide my face. Outside friendships are impossible. Being lonely, my thoughts turn back to an old boy friend. We went together a year or more, had much in common, were deeply in love, and planned to marry. Like I, he revelled in outdoor sports, mountain hikes and just our being together.

Then, for some silly reason, we broke up and he married another girl. They live in the very apartment he and I had chosen as our home. They have the little boy we dreamed of having. It bears the name we decided upon.

Occasionally, when I pass that apartment on the way to my parents' home, my former sweetheart will be in the yard. He looks at me and I at him—still loving one another. He doesn't get along with his wife any better than I do with my husband.

Lately, I have dreamed about him every night and wonder if I've come to them would be: Have a left part of my heart with him, good, long, wholesome courtship. In despair, I went to my clergyman. He says what is past is past. But my heart cries out for my first love. I've asked my husband to help me through this crisis but he scoffs and calls me stupid. Last night I again dreamed of the other man and awakened longing to feel his arms around me, his lips on mine or—maybe just hold my hand. But I know that can never be.

I've even thought of going to see him and pleading with him to help me forget. He is a teacher and, as I remember, pretty good at psychology, with a lot of common sense. I'm only 22 and long to do things that are worthwhile and exciting instead of humdrum.

I hope teen girls will read this letter and realize that there's a lot more to marriage than the excitement of a wedding and the mistaken hope of freedom. My advice to them would be: Have a left part of my heart with him, good, long, wholesome courtship. In despair, I went to my clergy-rather than the one you have to. Help me find the way back — Lost.

Dear Lost: You're thinking only of yourself. How about the other wife and little boy and your little girl? You made your choice and, if humanly possible, you should accept it with good grace. Your husband rants because you hunger for another man. He will lack appeal as long as you dream of your first love.

Those dreams menace your happiness. Are you sure you'd be happy with him? Or he with you? To break up two families is hardly the way to attain happiness.

A good psychiatrist could help you. Ask the local hospital or your doctor to recommend one.

Dear Helen: Is there such a thing as being too frank about one's self? I always thought you could talk over anything with a true friend but the more I told my girl friend (I'm a girl too), the less interested she was. Now it's "Amien" between us.

I've sent her special delivery letters, phoned, personally apologized and still she ignores me. I even tried to buy friendship by offering her money. What can I do? This girl means more to me than anybody—man or woman—I've ever met. —Faithful Reader

Dear Faithful: To be abject is to invite contempt. A certain amount of independence is absolutely necessary if you want to be regarded with favor by man or woman. True friendship cannot be bought or paid for. Your feeling for this girl are abnormal. Forget her! Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for my leaflet, "Glum to Glow."

Confidential Memos to: Jeanne: Check Lynn (Mass.) telephone, or city directory for your father's address.

Grandmother: A fatherless child presents no problem provided the mother has the necessary character. Loving the child as she evidently does, I wouldn't worry too much.

Hope Beats Fairview by 67 to 55 in Final Home Game

—Contax photos, Alex. H. Washburn

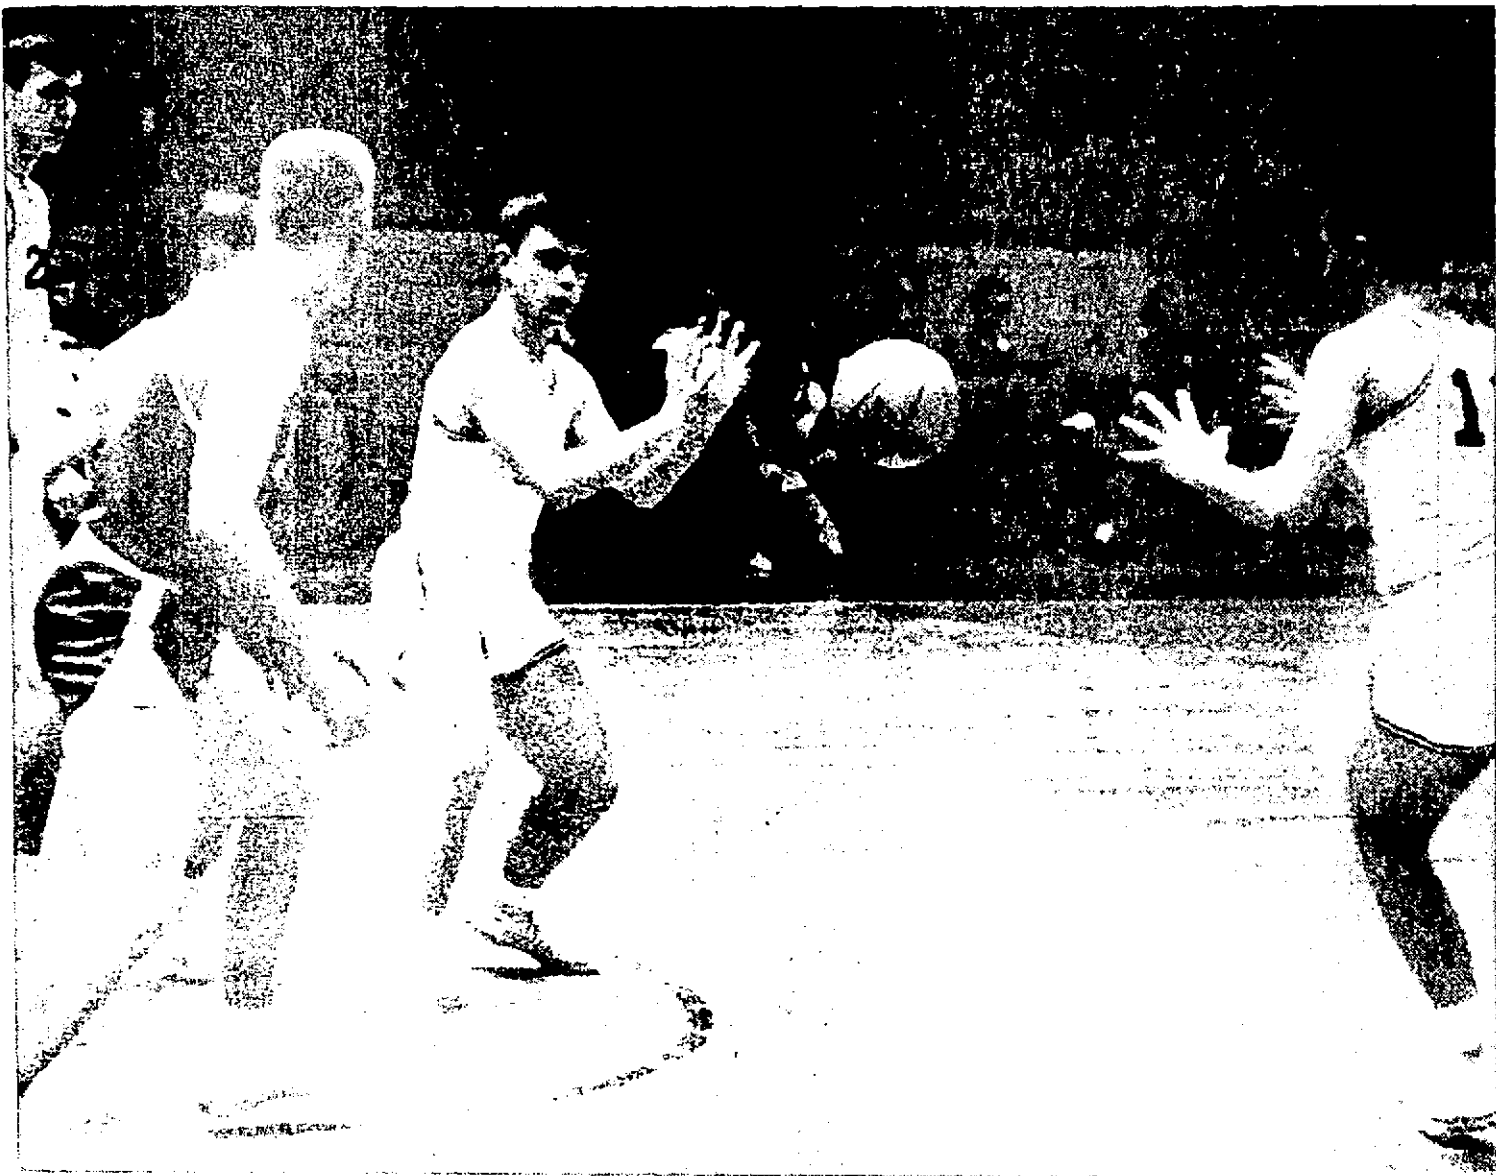

THE HOPE BOBCATS FOUGHT THEIR WAY INTO THE 4-AA tournament with a 67-55 victory over Fairview of Camden in the locals' final home game, at Jones Field House Friday night. THIS IS A RARE ACTION PICTURE BECAUSE IT

THIS TENSE SCENE HAS ALL THE ELEMENTS OF A dance — Note the pose of Fairview's Jones (31), Jack Russell

(34) has fired a high toss to Murphy (12), with the ball above camera range. Hope's Dan Jones (44) is at right.

FOSTER (20) IN A SHORT PASS TO RUSSELL (34), with Fairview's Teel (33) the man in the middle. CAMERA NOTE: The pictures were shot on Eastman's 53mm. Tri-X film, whose normal ASA rating of 200 was pushed by the editor's processing to ASA 2,000 — ten times normal.

center, and Foster, right. Fairview players are: Jones (31), Beard (35), and Teel (33).

Bobcats Take Crossett in Last Home Go

By CARTER HARDAGE

Saturday night the Hope Bobcats ended their regular season by taking a Conference victory from Crossett. Their seventh conference victory in a row moved their record up to 10-2 and placed them in another clash with Crossett at 7 p.m. Friday in the District Tournament at Malvern. The District championship will be determined in this tournament. Hope is the defending champion and will try to take first place for the fourth year in a row. Also, Friday night at 8 p.m., Malvern will take on Fairview and the two winners will play Saturday, along with the two losers. Still, the top three teams will go to the State Tournament at Little Rock.

Saturday night at Crossett, Hope's "B" Boys came from behind to take their game. With the Crossett's main strategy, against the Senior boys, consisted of a wicked press, which slowed down the Cats at first, but with a little fancy footwork and some razzle-dazzle dribbling, Mac McLarty was able to take the ball across the center stripe everytime. The Bobcats, unbothered by the Crossett press, racked up 16 points during the first quarter, to 11 for the Eagles Hope still led, by 21-21 at the half and an even bigger 45-39 at the third quarter. The final score was Hope 63, Crossett 54. Dan Jones was high with 21 points, Burnett had 12 and Murphy 10.
